Who Needs Renters Insurance?

Anyone who rents an apartment, condo, townhome, or other type of dwelling should seriously consider getting renters insurance. Renters insurance covers a tenant's personal property if it's damaged or destroyed during a break-in, a storm, or another event specified in the policy. In addition, renters insurance provides coverage for personal liability and medical bills if you have a guest over and they're injured. Finally, if there's a fire or other catastrophic event that forces you to move out of your unit, renters insurance will cover your extra living expenses, such as hotel bills and meals out.
